ADVENTIST CHURCH

Rufus B. McDaniel, Pastor
Sabbath School Lesson 5 for January 31, 1970
Subject: The Sinner Justified.
Key Text: "He hath made Him to be sin for us; that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him." 2 Cor. 5:21.

The phrase "justified by faith" occurs only in the writings of Paul. Through revelation he became the great proponent of doctorine of justification by faith through grace. Others taught the doctrine, but under the guidance of the Holy Spirit he developed this greatest of all doctrinal themes to its fullest extent, and tied it to God's love and the cross of Christ. It is hoped that this study will lead us reverently to ask the question: How do I stand in the sight of God at this moment?

Key Worlds – 1. Justify and Justification – The New Testament word group thus translated mean "to set right" to regard as righteous", "to acquit". To be justified is to be made and declared righteous, to be acquitted of wrong doing, to have charges canceled, to be brought into a right relation with God. . Righteousness. This word usually denotes the quality or state of being right. Among the Greeks righteousness consisted of conformity to accepted customs. To the Jews it was a matter of conformity to the requirements of the law as interpreted by the rabbis. But for Christs followers it means conformity to the principles of the kingdom of heaven. 3. Imputed Righteousness. In the Greek New Testament the original expression translated to impute, is also translated "to think". (Rom. 2:3). To count (Rom. 4: 3), to reckon (Rom.4:4). When God imputes righteousness to the repentant sinner, He figuratively places the righteousness of Christ to his credit on the books of heaven, and the sinner stands before God as if he never sinned.

Lesson Outline: 1. Born sinful. Rom. 3:10-12. 2 Righteous in Christ. Rom 3:24-26. 3. By Faith Not Works. Rom. 4:2-5. 4. A proper attitude. Luke 18: 13-14. 5. No Longer Enemies Rom 5:1-2. Free at Last. Rom. 8:1-4.

Jesus came to this earth in the likeness of sinful flesh that He might condemn sin in the flesh. He took sin upon Himself, felt its effects, experienced the condemnation it brings, died because of it. God's character is vindicated, justice is satisfied, and the accuser of the brethern is cast down. Rev. 12:10 and his accusations discredited. The way is clear for the salvation of every sinner who comes to Christ in faith. Think It Through – How can I now if my actions is controlled by the love of Christ? Sabbath School – 9:30 a.m. Worship Service - 11:00 a.m.

Alabama Baptist Church

Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands. Palams 100: 1.

Our regular church services were held Sunday. Everyone present enjoyed the message given by the pastor, Rev. Curtis Elliott. Spiritual songs were sung by the choir, with Mrs. Catherine Haskins at piano.

A special solo was requested by Mrs. Elliott for Dea. Carlyle Robinson to sing "Somewhere Around God's Throne". Everyone enjoyed the lovely solo.

A new member from New Jersey City joined the Alabama Baptist Church. Mr. Thomas Colly now living in their new home located in Evergreen, Va. Everyone stood and welcomed him and his wife.

Lot of visitors were present, Dea. Wyatt Venable from White Oak Grove Baptist Church, Dea. L. H. Harvey and Dea. Carlyle Robinson from Saint Andrew Church, Cullen, Va.

Dea. Eddie Hancock and Dea. James Moore from Mt. Lyle Baptist Church Madisonville, Va. and Dea. Jackson, also attended.

We thank the Deacons from visiting Churches and friends united with Alabama Baptist Church during their regular service.

Sunday School - 10 a.m. each Sunday.

"Crisis Corner" Gets Call

The church - sponsored "Crisis Corner" received a call this week in a plea from Hobart Daniel, Jr. (above) of the Chap Community for help in rebuilding his home. Daniel, a disabled worker, lost everything he had in a fire January 15. With the "Crisis Corner" project newly organized there isn't much in the way of clothing or household goods to answer this request. Householders who want to help Hobart Daniel are asked to take clothing, dishes, blankets, etc. to Oscar Jamerson and Sons Woodyard where they will be picked up. For others, with clothing and other items to contribute, please contact your church chairman or the co-chairmen of the project, Mrs. J. Lloyd Hudson and Mrs. Eugene Peyton. Daniel wears a size 38 suit, size 8 shoes, 15 shirt (or medium).

Mt. Airy

There will be no Senior Choir Rehearsal this week. Rehearsal will be Feb. 10 at 7 o'clock.

Father Parkleaf

By Calvin Robinson

It is obvious now that days are getting longer. I notice it most in the afternoon. It is only when the weather is warm that I watch for the sunrise, and the lay of the land is such that I cannot get a good look at a sunset from Martha Parkleaf. But there are other ways to tell that Nature adheres to a schedule, and will be ready with more daylight for seasonal outdoor chores. Quite frankly, I have been the lure of Valentine Day and other memorable birthdays of family people ever made me rave about February. But I will take a step in stride, glad to be around.

* * *

I have checked on the cook stove season, and in Appomattox County it runs through about Oct. 10. I do not go hunting myself, but records tell me cook hunting is quite an experience.

Appomattox is such a growing town I cannot keep up with the new names. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Elliott are building a new home in my part of town, but so help me, I could not recall the name of the street until I chanced checked with Town Manager C. S. Booth. Fleshman Drive. Story about that. The Fleshman family once owned a rather large acreage in what is now the incorporate limits, and in laying out planned lots and streets, names were assigned. The names of ladies in the family: Martha, Ethel, Lucy. I guess that Martha St. And I think that is the order for one of the streets to be named: Fleshman, while on this general subject, I noticed the fine new apartment building going up in the southern half of town and that the location as the corner of East Lee -Grant Ave, and Sandy St. The "Lee-Grant" is well known about, but is the Sandy for Vince?

* * *

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Torrence on their 50th wedding anniversary. I couldn't make it to the reception Sunday afternoon but I will be there ere the corn tassels.

From the bulging note pad: Speaker for school athletic teams fascinating subject. Tigers, Lions, Bees, Hornets, Indians, Rebels, Panthers, Blue Devils, Eagles, etc. My college alma mater, University of Richmond. The teams are known as Spiders. Not the likeliest of names for spiders are none too pretty. But the story, as I got it, was that away back in the late 1800's, Richmond College had a baseball team featuring a superior pitcher. This pitcher was tall as a monument and as gaunt as a needle. Before batting the ball, he would wave his long arms and get the batter hypnotized that someone remarked that he was like a Spider. And there weaving a net. The name became a winner, weaving a net. Everyone talked about The Spider and his school. It became known as The Spiders. Ah yes, the school annual was called; The Web. Sports-writers readers would welcome the low about the nicknames of some of famous schools. I think that Grantland Rice who gave the name "The Four Horsemen" to Notre Dame's great football field. The follows up front with "The Seven Mules." I like that subject. Who decided to name George Herman Ruth, "Babe?" Good story about that. Grant being nicknamed "Uncle Sam." And that awesome nickname for George Patton. For now, I can wrap it up by saying that I gave myself the name, "Darkleaf." Who knows? Maybe Adam did not call Eve, but "Honey". So long, and call me what you like, just as long as you keep reading.

ACP & Matching Programs Cut Cost
Time To Order Pine Seedlings

Any break in the winter weather can mean good news for tree planters, as county forester Warren Taylor and Chief Forest Warden David M. Smith begin their rounds taking orders for pine seedlings.

Cost of seedlings is $6.00 per thousand, and pulp and paper companies in the area will match each thousand seedlings ordered with another thousand says Warren Taylor. In addition, the Agriculture Conservation Program, with Newton Jennings, as county manager, will reimburse planters for their costs, offering a substantial reduction in cost to the landowner.

Smith and Taylor are hoping to top the order for last year when 700,000 seedlings were sold to private landowners of Appomattox. "There are still thousands of abandoned fields" says forester Taylor. "Private landowners own approximately 115,000 acres of woodland in the county and 70% of this needs to be reforested."

More than 400,000 seedlings are already on order.

Taylor and Smith feel that landowners have a money-making "bargain" at their fingertips in the many services offered by the Division of Forestry — college education for the youngsters, money for retirement and future security, can all be obtained through using one's land wisely, they say. And NOW is the time to order pine seedlings for the growing season just around the corner.

Appomattox county set a record last year, with more seedlings sold per acre of forest land than any other county in the Lee-county district to which Appomattox belongs.

A fee of $5 is charged for the battery of tests and $1 for each retest.

The tests, administered and supervised by the Adult Education Service of the State Department of Education, are designed to measure the educational development of individuals who left school before graduation.

The battery of five examinations in English composition, social studies, natural science, literature, and mathematics are designed to measure the major

Committee Is Named To Organize Industrial Planning Corporation

Business and professional leaders of the county met at the Court House Monday evening and elected a steering committee of thirteen to plan for an Industrial Planning Corporation. Speaker was George Delo, director, community development, Governor's office, Division of Industrial Planning (7th from left) standing next to Kenneth Lane, assistant manager, industrial development, Virginia Electric Power Co. Steering committee members and other leaders who stayed for the post-meeting plan session include (from left): R. E. Jamerson, J. D. Simpson, H. G. Lawson, W. Lloyd Vaughan, W. E. Jamerson, Dan Cole, Delo, Lane, O. H. Tolley, Jr., J. B. Drinkard, J. E. Smith, J. S. Grinels, and C. T. Moses.

13 Elected Monday Night

A public meeting held Monday evening at the Court House to discuss possibilities of industrial growth in Appomattox has resulted in the formation of a steering committee and plans for additional meetings within the month to plan for an industrial planning corporation.

Thirteen business and professional men were elected to the steering committee, with James A. Smith, extension agent, agriculture, elected chairman at the conclusion of the meeting.

The 13 include J. B. Drinkard, John Cole, W. E. Jamerson, James Smith, O. H. Tolley, Jr., Ivey Holland, Harry Gordon Lawson, J. Danny Simpson, John S. Grinels, W. Lloyd Vaughan, C. T. Moses, R. B. Pack and Richard Williams.

Speaker Monday evening was George Delo, Director of Community Development of the Governor's office, Division of Industrial Development.

The meeting is an outgrowth of conferences and a luncheon held recently by the Appomattox board of supervisors with local leaders and corporation officials concerned with industrial development in Appomattox.

Commonwealth's attorney Harry Gordon Lawson opened Monday's meeting. James A. Smith, extension agent, agriculture, introduced Kenneth Lane, assistant manager, industrial development with Virginia Electric and Power Co. and George Delo who gave a brief address and then answered questions from the floor.

Said Delo "We have been tremendously impressed with the activity in Appomattox toward improving economic development. This indicates that citizens are thinking along lines of industrial development."

Delo mentioned four types of organizations with full time professionals seeking out industry to locate in Virginia; the Governor's office, Division of Industrial Development, the State Chamber of Commerce, railroads, electric producers and cooperatives.

Delo suggested that an industrial planning corporation would be a useful organization in that it could include all interested persons rather than an industrial development group confined to one organization.

He suggested a minimum of 25 members, that IDC be a non-profit organization, incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth, with officers and board of directors.

In Virginia "You have much working for you", he said, citing the current trend to locate new manufacturing in rural non-metropolitan areas. He said that since 1962, 800 new industries employing more than 50,000 people have located in Virginia and 600 industries have expanded, employing an additional 45,000.

He said that every 100 new jobs in manufacturing creates 96 non- manufacturing jobs.

Most industries want water and sewage systems provided, said Delo. Appomattox Mayor H. B. Pack, said in answer to questions about water and sewage that Appomattox is fortunate to be located on water bearing rock, Pack said that the town is taking care of present water and sanitary needs, and that main capital outlay is involved in the distribution of water lines at present. He mentioned the Cub Creek Watershed as one of the long - range planning projects of the county.

Delo said that Appomattox has "much working for you", that "we don't advocate give - away programs" to attract industry. He said that Virginia has good climate, right - to work law, community colleges and training programs for industrial workers which are receiving "tremendous commitment."

Delo suggested that the board of supervisors consider setting up an Industrial Authority to work in conjunction with the Industrial Development Corporation.

The newly organized steering committee made plans to meet February 17 with a public meeting planned for March 16.

'Courtland' Is Coming Down

Dismantling 'Courtland', landmark home on Court Street of the late Senator and Mrs. S. L. Ferguson, is a labor of love for the Fergusons' great grandson, "Chip" Wilson (left) and his partner Eddie Johnson of Virginia Beach. Here Chip confers with Eddie on the contents of a notebook detailing amount of paneling, number of window frames, columns and other parts of the house being offered for sale. The home was built in 1911. It contained 32 rooms, an elevator, roof garden, wide verandas – even a conservatory on the lower level, used to grow flowers and protect seedlings for summer gardens. Because of the many political visitors entertained there, 'Courtland' was spoke of as the 'Power House' during Senator Ferguson's years as a powerful influence in Virginia politics.

County Records 14 Forest Fires During 1969

Forest fires which approached a ten-year high in 1968, declined sharply in 1969. The Virginia Division of Forestry releasing the year's forest fire occurrence and acreage burned figures, says the reduction of over 150 escaped fires is important in Southside Virginia. While the weather was more favorable during the hazardous fire periods says foresters, the public recognizes more, the value of Virginia's forests and are conscious of fire prevention methods.

Brush and trash burners, and smokers still cause many of the escaped fires. Smoking game from hollow trees and children playing with matches are high on the list of causes. These are the types of fires

Ruritans Sponsor Tax Meeting

On Thursday, Feb. 19, at 7:30 p.m., the Oakville Ruritan Club will sponsor an income tax meeting at the Oakville Elementary School. James A. Nolen, Extension Agent, Farm Management (pictured above conducting a similar meeting) will present material on filing personal income tax returns for individuals. The procedure for completing and filing individual tax returns changed considerably for 1969 because of changes in Form 1040. This meeting presents an excellent opportunity to learn about the changes and to ask questions concerning taxes. This meeting is designed for the general public and it is hoped that many will attend.

Mothers' March Nets $361.20
